BATH'S ORIGINAL THEATRE ROYAL & MASONIC MUSEUM

Old Orchard Street, Bath
Just a five-minute walk from the Abbey

12 Old Orchard Street may be one of the more anonymous buildings in this City of architectural gems, but behind the door opening onto what is now one of Bath's quietest cobbled backstreets, is a unique history that has, over 260 years, seen it become the first Theatre Royal outside of London, then a Catholic Chapel where Bishops were ordained and, since 1865, the home of one of England's oldest provincial Masonic Lodges.

During your fascinating one-hour Guided Tour, you will stand on the very stage where Sarah Siddons, the finest Tragic Actress of all time, received the adulation of her audiences, then go backstage to see the original 18th Century scenery loft.

You will visit the chapel where Bishop Baines would prepare before delivering his fiery sermons, then enter the vaults below where exiled French nobility were once buried.

Finally, you will experience the ambience of one of the grandest Masonic Halls in the country, and view possibly one of the finest collections of rare Masonic Artefacts in the World.
